LAHMACUN

(pronounced la-ma-jun)

Some say it's the godfather of pizza, all we know is the word Lahmacun was first written in AD1411 within the Galettepe region of Turkey. Translating as "meat paste" or "lamb on dough" Lahmacun is traditionally made from minced breast of lamb mixed with tomatoes, peppers, onions and spices, spread thinly over a tortilla type dough base then cooked in clay ovens until crispy on the edges. It's a taste that cannot be described, we Turkish crave it and will travel far and wide for our favourite Lahmacun, for this reason alone one is never enough.
